

POPE NOT DEAD, AS WAS REPORT IN MADRID TODAY

HEAD OF THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH RECEIVED MANY VISITORS TODAY.

IS NOT SERIOUSLY ILL

Rumor Evidently Started From Some Unauthoritative Source and Was Given Credence.

Rome, Italy, April 11.—(4:27 p. m.)—There is no truth in the report circulating through the world today based on a telegram from Madrid that the Pope is dead.

Field Reception.
The Pope continues his daily audience. He received today Cardinal Della Volpe, Prince Borghese, Senator de Estrada, the Argentine minister at the Vatican, and his family and Countess Jonche.

Afterwards the Pontiff greeted a number of Italian and foreign personalities.

Madrid, Spain, April 11.—A dispatch received from Rome at the Spanish embassy announced that the Pope is dead.

No confirmation has been received from Rome regarding the report of the Pope's death.

In Most Sudden.
A private dispatch received from Rome which confirms that the report of the Pope's death, and the report from Madrid of the Pope's death, comes with startling suddenness and is to be taken with all reserve until a direct confirmation is received from Rome.

Nothing within the last few days has indicated that the Pope was in a critical condition, although his health for some time has been unsatisfactory.

On March 25 he was compelled to suspend his audiences for a few days, owing to a slight cough, accompanied by catarrh. On March 27 he was sufficiently improved to resume his audience, and on that day an audience of three hundred and fifty persons who noted a slight cough and some hoarseness in his speech, but there was no evidence of any serious disability. The Pope went through the fulfilling ceremony of greeting three hundred persons without a sign of exhaustion.

A Private Dispatch.
The first dispatch from Madrid received today, is but a few words, and it was stated that it was a private dispatch which brought the first word of the report to Madrid. This was the only dispatch which was not a sensational statement, but the subsequent confirmation of the dispatch, gives a serious news to be report which cannot be overlooked.

Why a report of such gravity should first be made to Madrid has not been explained and gives further reasons for reserve of judgment.

Received At London.
London, Eng., April 11.—The same dispatch as the one transmitted to America was received here announcing that a private message confirmed by the Pope's secretary at Madrid, stated that the Pope was dead.

London, April 11.—The Irish home rule bill, the third effort made by liberal governments of the United Kingdom in a quarter of a century to settle the quarrel between Great Britain and Ireland, was introduced in the house of commons this afternoon by Premier Asquith.

The official title of the bill is "Government of Ireland bill." The bill provides for the creation of a new parliament for Ireland, and for the public, were filled to their utmost capacity, while every seat in the body of the house was occupied and an overflow of members stood in the galleries.

An Error.
The official Spanish news agency explains that its statement that the Pope was dead was due to an error in a message received from Rome at the Spanish embassy here. It is believed that the error occurred in the deciphering of a code message.

HAS NO STATEMENT TO MAKE NO CHARGE

Frederick O. Beach, Charged By His Wife With Assault With Intent to Kill in Relation.

Paris, April 11.—Frederick O. Beach, the Wall Street broker, against whom the legal authorities in Alton, S. # FIND BRUISED BODY OF MISSING WOMAN

A Hunter Today Finds Remains of Mrs. Irene Goheen of Nowata, Okla., Who Had Been Foully Murdered.

Nowata, Okla., April 11.—Spirited from her home or abducted and forced to accompany her captors to a lonely spot a mile north of Nowata, Mrs. Irene Goheen, twenty-six years old, newspaper collector, and the wife of a traveling salesman, was beaten to death with stones Monday night. Her body was found today by a hunter.

The young woman, who is widely known among Oklahoma newspaper men, accompanied a friend to the railway station on Monday night. The next morning her hat was found in a yard near her home. No trace of her was found until a boy hunter discovered her body two hundred yards from a highway, her head beaten to a pulp, but her clothing slightly disarranged. Footprints in the earth nearby indicated that she had been accompanied by two men. Developments at the present time are expected to be sensational.

HALL & HUEBEL

Band Instruments

Frank Holton & Co., of Chicago, Ill., have just secured H. F. Nott (the reliable piano dealer) to represent them in Janesville and vicinity for their famous Holton Band Instruments.

It's said for a fact that more musicians or star players are using or buying more Holton instruments than any other make, because of their ease of blowing and pure quality of tone.

The world's greatest trombonist (James Miller) is using a Holton trombone.

If you are in want of a cornet, trombone, or any other instrument, try a Holton and be convinced.

Send all repairs, if any, to

ESTEEMED FOOTVILLE MAN DIES SUDDENLY

Fred Drafaht For Many Years a Resident of Center and Footville Died This Morning.

Footville, April 11.—It is only a very short time with a complication of heart trouble and pneumonia, Fred Drafaht one of the old and highly respected residents of Footville, suddenly passed away at his home in this village this morning. It was not generally known that he had been ailing at all and the news of his death came as a shock to his many friends in this region.

Mr. Drafaht was born in Germany, Sept. 1, 1844. When a lad of nineteen years he came to this country to seek his fortune, and soon afterward located in the town of Center where he prospered. He was twice married. His first wife passing away March 7th, 1896. In December 1901 he was married to Miss Bertha Gerber of Jefferson who survives him.

To his first union were born six children of whom three survive, Mrs. William Davis of the town of Center; W. P. Drafaht, who lives on his father's farm in the town of Center; and George Drafaht of the town of Monticello.

Mr. Drafaht has been living in Footville for a number of years when he retired from active work on his farm in Center. He was highly respected by all who knew him as a man of honesty and honor.

Funeral services will be held from the home Sunday morning at ten o'clock and later from the German Methodist church in Center.

VICTIM AND SUSPECT IN NEW YORK BOMB OUTRAGE.

New York City.—Judge Rosalesky is still being congratulated by his friends upon his narrow escape in the bomb explosion of Saturday, when the inspector Owen Egan was injured while opening a box received at Judge Rosalesky's home by special delivery mail. The above is the first charge made by Inspector Egan and two police officers on the beat. When Inspector Egan arrived it was discovered that Judge Rosalesky had been in the bomb it would have still exploded, owing to the action of water on certain chemicals in the bomb.

Inspector Egan, contrary to the wishes of the judge, started to open the bomb to discover its nature and while doing so the bomb exploded, blinding Egan and burning his hands and arms.

The explosion completely wrecked the library and the report was heard for many blocks.

Wolf Herman is being held by the police as a suspect.

LINK AND PIN

C. M. St. P.

Engineer Kohler and Fireman Wm. so went out on engine 1454 this morning on a work train which was just put on the Southwestern division this morning. This train will only be on for three or four days as business is very quiet on that division, only about one train a day going over it.

The half and half switch engine has been taken off and will be seen in the yards no more for a while.

Fireman Poppleton who is one of the youngest firemen on the road accepted a position as night fireman at the Janesville Electric plant until business picks up in the railroad line.

Master Mechanic Plumb of Milwaukee was a business visitor at the local yards yesterday.

Four extras came into the city yesterday, one from the west in charge of Engineer Barker and Fireman Price at 1:20; two from the east with Engineer Rooney and Fireman Elbert and Engineer Bird and Fireman Elbert in the cab, and Engineer West and Fireman Williams brought in another at 5:40 o'clock in the morning on the C. & M. division.

Engineer Rooney and Fireman Elbert took a train out on the Mineral Point division yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Fireman Martin who has been off for a few days was back on the job this morning.

C. & N. W.

Car Clerk William McDonald left this morning for Muscatine, Iowa, expecting to return by Monday morning.

Charles Olson went to Brodhead last night for a short visit.

An extra went south yesterday at 1:30 in the afternoon in charge of Conductor Grebe, Engineer E. W. Sharit and Fireman R. D. Ugan being in the cab.

Brakenman John O'Grady who has been laying off for a couple of weeks on account of sickness returned to Chicago to resume work this morning.

Five new super-heater engines went through here several days ago on their way to the Omaha division and five more followed them this morning. These are of the largest type used and are probably for freight service on that division.

The Stars.

The number of stars that can be seen by a sharp eye in our hemisphere is about 3,000, or 6,000 in both hemispheres. By the telescope, of course, many thousands of stars are brought out that are invisible to the naked eye. Using an instrument little more than two inches wide there have been more than 310,000 stars duly charted in the northern half of the heavens alone. It has been estimated by very high authorities that the total number visible in the whole celestial vault would amount up to 80,000,000.

Figure blotters for a girl's desk are made by cutting out and coloring a figure from cardboard. The colonial, hoop-skirted little ladies are the best. Face the back with blottling paper as well as the "cavalier" piece of cardboard fastened to her to stand her up that she may preside over the ink bottle.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

DAN MCCARTY -

The Olympic Marathon at Stockholm this year will not be over a straightaway course, but twelve miles out and back over the same road, starting from the stadium and going almost due north to the village of Solentuna and back to the track. The competitors will make two circuits of the stadium track at start and a fraction of a lap at the finish. American representatives who have examined the course say it is a good road, running the entire way through practically wild country, with considerable variety of scenery and some hills, which, especially toward the finish, will be trying. The runners will find the course generally down hill at starting, then a level stretch in the middle section, with bits of uphill work again toward the turning point. Ending home the process will be the same.

Arrangements are to be completed in New York within the next few days for a motor boat race in which the prize probably will be the largest ever put up for a contest of this kind. The contender will be the Rollins, owned by J. J. Ryan, and the Dixie Jr., built from the designs of Clinton H. Crane. Each boat is twenty feet long and equipped with engines of about 60-horsepower. According to holders, the rival owners are prepared to back their boats for a stake which may total as much as $100,000.

When John McGraw, leader of the Giants, undertook to put one over on Charles Frank, leader of the New Orleans aggregation, by proposing to play his stars for two exhibition games with the Pelicans he evidently forgot that he was dealing with one of the oldest hands in the business. As a result of McGraw's violating the contract Frank has notified the

SCRAPS OF SPORTING STUFF.

The big day is here and the weather man promises to behave himself for once. He can be obliging once in a while.

The Gazette will get the scores right on the dot. Watch for them by innings on the bulletin boards in the window.

The Sox and Cubs ought to start out with victories just by the way of a little encouragement.

Probably the Sox will show some speed as their new suits look 20 per cent faster than last year.

"Big Ed" Walsh is in good shape and is pronounced O. K. for a nine or ten inning stretch.

King Cole looks like a favorite again this season. His worth will be given a trial today against Frank Smith.

O you browser! But never mind it to 5 is a mighty close score. It's too bad to use five pitchers in the first game though.

It is expected that Manager Callahan will sign up Matty McIntyre, the White Sox regular right fielder last season, within a few days.

It all depends on the weather man. Here's hoping that he will be kind.

Janesville has a good baseball diamond but no home team.

Matchmaker Hookett is arranging for a promising boxing contest at the rink April 29th.

Here's hoping he gets a good opponent for Harrison, the Chicago lad, who showed himself a corner at the last contest.

Kid De Munn will be a favorite, but not if he is matched with Billy Morris head.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Joe Delahanty, who was with Toronto last season, has signed with the Atlanta Southern League club.

The Pittsburgh club has released pitcher Grover in the Hartford (Conn.) Club, and pitcher Everett and outfielder Irwin to Montreal.

Must be something to this young Mr. Russell, the Baltimore pitcher, when he can make the Philadelphia Nationals lay down and play dead.

Pitcher Howard Northrup, champion fillyer of the Tri-State League, looks good enough to become a regular with the Chicago Cubs.

Steve Yorkes may land a regular job at second base for the Boston Red Sox. He has been covering the bag this spring and doing the work in July form.

Manager Wolverton, of the Highlanders, figures that his pitching staff will be able to put the art of fence-busting out of business this season.

Owner Charley Somers, of the Cleve-landers, represent two extremes in men's scenery. Mike changes his clothes three or four times a day while a slouch hat and a soft collar is Wagner's sweetest makeup. Still the flying Dutchman is there when it comes to sport. He is a first-class bowler, a billiard player, a crack shot, a basketball expert, a hockey player, clever at golf, a skilful auto driver and taken down $10,000 for six months work on the diamond.

With the Boxers. Mike Gilbons and Puddy Lavin have staged a clash to take place in Cleveland, April 20.

New Orleans sports stand ready to put up a $17,000 purse for a bout between Ad Wolgast and Joe Mandot.

STORY OF BATTLES IN GAZETTE SCORES

Gazette Will Receive Scores on Big Games Every Three Innings and Final With Hits and Errors.

GAMES FOR TOMORROW.

American League.
St. Louis at Chicago.
Detroit at Cleveland.
Washington at Philadelphia.
Boston at New York.
National League.
Chicago at Cincinnati.
Pittsburgh at St. Louis.
New York at Brooklyn.
Philadelphia at Boston.

Fans were promised ideal weather for the big opening day for the American and National league seasons and record crowds gathered at every ball park where a big contest was scheduled long before the hour for calling the games.

Janesville fans who cannot be in Chicago for the opening fray of the White Sox with the St. Louis Browns, will be interested to know that the Gazette will receive the scores as fast as possible, getting the results of the games every three innings. The first results will come from the eastern games and will be posted as early as three o'clock. The results of the other eight games will be on the bulletin boards no later than six o'clock. Don't forget to stop and look at the boards on your way home. The result of the first games may point the way for the season. Who knows? Anyway you will want to know the results and forecast a little perhaps, although it may be wise not to place any rash bets one way or another on the first day.

Sox at Chicago.
"Big Ed" Walsh was in the box for the Chicago White Sox when the game with the St. Louis Browns was called at Comiskey park at three o'clock this afternoon. Mayor Carter H. Harrison tossed the first ball and the game was on. The great ball palace was filled with expectant fans who cheered wildly when the Sox marched onto the field in their new suits. The Sox line-up was as follows: Rath, 2d b; Lord, 3d b; Callahan, 1b; Bodie, cf; Mattiek, rf; Zolner, 1st b; Weaver, ss; Sullivan, c; and Walsh, p. St. Louis started with Lake and Stephens as the battery.

Cubs vs. Reds.
The Chicago Cubs were lined up with the Cincinnati Reds at a brand

WILL BOWL FRIDAY TO DECIDE HONORS

Tigers and Sox Will Contend at Hookett's Alley Tomorrow Evening Which Will Be Ladies' Night.

Members of the Tigers and Sox bowling teams who ended the season in a tie, each with a percentage of 60, will meet in the championship game tomorrow evening. The game Friday night will decide the honors of the season and will be played at Hookett's alleys. The ladies will be invited to witness the match, which will be a regular three-game contest. Refereements will be served at the close of the games.

The members of the Tigers team are: E. Baumann, J. Neuman, Ryan, Sutherland and Goss.

The Sox team is as follows: Mend, G. Baumann, Fleck, A. Griddle and McDonald.

It was found necessary to postpone the decisive contest owing to the fact that the bowling pits were flooded by the high water.

Took Rank With the Best.
"No," said the haughty Boola-Boola, daughter of the King of the Cannibal Islands, as she arrayed herself in her necklace of missionary's teeth, and a nice, fresh smile, "these dressmakers of London, Paris, and New York have nothing on me!" And with her eyes twinkling with happiness she swept regally into the ballroom.—Harper's Weekly.

Modern Maidens Not Weaklings.
A Philadelphia society debutante chased two young thieves who had snatched her bag, caught them, got back her property, and then marched the culprits to a policeman. The days when it was considered the graceful thing for a young lady to be pretty helpless and to depend on some one to take care of her are forever past and gone.

"BIG 8" BARS STAGG FROM CONFERENCE

Alonso Stagg.
It is a resolution adopted by the members of the conference known as the "Big Eight" is notified by the universities, two men who for years have dominated a policy will be out, and others will take their place. The men who are above to be deposed are Alonso Stagg, of the University of Chicago, and Dr. W. C. Cresson, of the University of Wisconsin. The resolution provides: "Athletic directors or any person receiving remuneration from the athletic department of the various schools in the 'Big Eight' shall not be permitted to represent their school as members of the conference." Neither of the directors are present at the meeting.

THE GOLDEN EAGLE

Just Ask Us to Show You the Best $15 Blue Serge We've Ever Had—It's 5130

THERE'S so much real value in the Clothcraft Blue Serge Special, No. 5130, at $15, that you might easily mistake it for a suit costing $20 or more.

In fact, measured by its quality, it really should cost more, under ordinary conditions. But its unusual merit is the result of a new idea in clothes making by which the quality is improved without a corresponding increase of cost.

The makers, by centering definite advertising upon this one suit, increase the demand for it. Without sacrificing quality, this makes possible a saving on cost of making as a result of the larger production. The new idea, simply expressed, is to estimate in advance this saving on the making and put it into better cloth than otherwise the makers could afford to use in a suit at this price.

The result is a $15 blue serge suit that, honestly, is the best we've ever seen at the price—a suit, dressy and stylish enough for any man, with lasting shape and satisfactory wear and service absolutely guaranteed.

CLOTHCRAFT
Blue Serge Special
No. 5130 GUARANTEED ALLWOOL $15
AND FAST COLOR

Examine the cloth. You will appreciate its soft even texture and its full rich color. Note the style lines and graceful drape of the coat. Try it on. You will agree that it could not fit or become you better if it had been made expressly for you.

The tailoring is the skilled result of expert workmanship, thoroughly inspected, characteristic of Clothcraft scientific methods of clothes making.

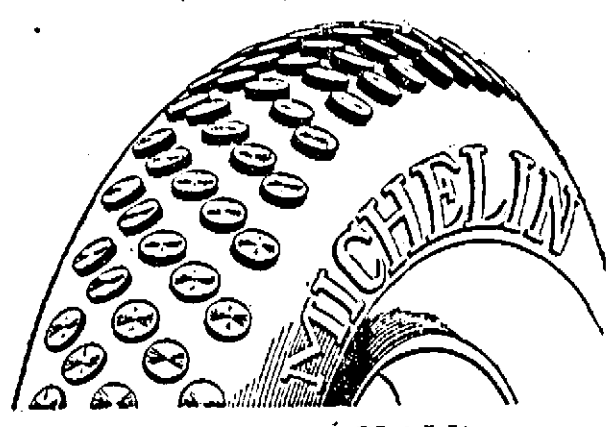

You have a number of good models to choose from, all correctly cut according to the latest Spring and Summer style ideas.

All these quality points you can see for yourself before you buy the suit. For the rest you need not depend alone on our word or your judgment. You are absolutely protected by the makers' signed guarantee—backed by our own—of pure wool, fast color, lasting shape, satisfactory wear and service.

Any way you look at it, 5130 at $15 is a safe, sure and satisfactory investment. Before you lay this paper aside, decide to see the Clothcraft Blue Serge Special, No. 5130. We leave the rest to your good judgment.

makes against Mr. Taft makes democratic votes."

The automobile is responsible for the change from the old system of the foul-smelling barns on private residence property to neat and tidy garages. One way to exterminate the flies is to obliterate their breeding places.

Members of the new commission are not going into their responsibilities blindly. They are spending their time before taking office in becoming thoroughly acquainted with the conditions and what needs changing at once.

In Chicago the woman suffragettes were defeated, but not discouraged. They will try again. Meanwhile, here in Wisconsin the question comes up for a vote next fall, so be prepared for the ultimate decision at that time.

Now that the spring election is over the usual summer pre-primary campaign will be started and it is expected that there will be something doing every minute for some months to come.

Roosevelt continues to make democratic votes for Clark, according to the opinion of the experts. Meanwhile La Follette is having his say and presenting his arguments against the third term idea.

When the Park Association gets through with their improvements at their grounds Janesville is going to be on the map again as a center for fast horses and good racing cards.

The Auditorium Company have decided as an initial step in the improvement of the West Side rink to paint the structure. It has needed it badly and the improvement will be noted at once.

Janesville used to be a good horse town. Why not now? There are certainly enough good players in the city to make up several times and one would expect enthusiasm over the national pastime.

Spare the rod and spoil the child might be applied with vehemence to the numerous young loafers that hang about the streets and congregate in the pool rooms nightly.

Governor McGovern has laid down what he wants the special session of the legislature to do and not to do, but he has said nothing about the repeal of the income tax law yet.

Who says Janesville is not growing when one stops to count the numerous barns that are being transformed into living houses this spring.

Senator Cullom was defeated for re-nomination at the primary in Illinois. It is a way an ungrateful republic has of turning down its aged and honored statesmen.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

"ENTERING JOURNALISM."

A young man wants me to tell him what is necessary to "enter journalism."

Everything is necessary.

Daily newspaper work on the editorial side is the most exacting business on earth.

First the beginner must have a strong body. He should have a reserve of vitality to withstand the killing strain of intense labors concentrated into a brief time.

Next he must have that sixth sense known as "the nose for news." It is a faculty difficult to describe, usually bred in the bone. It is the ability to "see a story" where others do not.

Then add to these requirements the want to follow a lead, accurate judgment, ability to make and hold friends, patience, poise, initiative, loyalty to orders.

What about ability to write? You say. Any school graduate can write. It is only necessary to tell things in straight, simple, clear English.

And you, all these things are necessary to put your foot on the lowest rung of the ladder as a "cub" reporter. You can climb only by experience and trials under difficulty.

Young man, don't enter journalism unless—

You feel you were predestined from all eternity to be a newspaper man or—

Unless you know you will not be happy outside a newspaper office or—

Unless the stern requirements are like a bugle call of challenge.

Because—

The demands of a modern daily newspaper, if you would climb, are as high as human flesh and blood can stand, and the pay is not in proportion. The discipline is as severe as that of military service, and there is no mercy for those who fail.

But—

If the odor of printer's ink is intense to your nostrils, if you feel it in your power to make good, if the strong soul of you rises to the call for service, why, then—

In the name of Benjamin Franklin, pitch in!

You will get your chance once started, and never, never fear. "Pull" will not promote some fellow less worthy than you. You stand on your own foundation. Merit wins.

And there are compensations. The fascination of the business is beyond that of any other.

But, by the price of your eternal salvation, do not misunderstand the requirements!

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By Roy K. Moulton.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT—THE HARGAIN DAY GIRL.

She goes into the drygoods store and wanders round two hours or more.

And looks at all the signs. She handles all the latest of silk and satins varied in piles.

In long and varied lines. She pries everything in sight and drives the clerks in sight quite.

When they can't make a sale. She misses not a counter there, but visits each to stand and stare.

And bites her finger nails. They think that she is going to buy the whole store out and wonder why.

She doesn't make a start. You see, she really looks as though she has a whole cartload of dough with which she wants to part.

And when they ask her, "How much, please?" in tones which show they're ill at ease.

She merely shakes her head; And when she leaves, it's safe to bet she's bought just what she came to get.

A spool of cotton thread.

OUR NEW THEATRE.

We are planning to build a new theatre—one which will please everybody in every respect every spot in the room and every minute of the time.

The architects who have undertaken to draw the designs for the theatre have been warned that the following results must be forthcoming.

NAME.

You may pile up a fortune or win high official place;

You may win in a prize fight, may drive first in a race;

You may be an ambassador or fly an aeroplane;

You may invent a new mouse trap or outdo for pain;

You may hunt up the old south pole and place it on the map;

Or you may save a hundred lives and risk your own, mayhap.

But though you should do all of this, you'll not win fame that's true.

Till some one makes a bump clear and names it after you.

Unveil a Memorial to Women of Confederacy.

Governor of South Carolina, Milledge, and Patriotic Organizations Participate in Ceremonies.

Columbia, S. C., April 11.—South Carolina's overhauling memorial to the Women of the Confederacy, said to be the first monument to women ever erected independently by a state, was unveiled here today with splendid ceremonies.

The Governor and other officials, the state military, the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the United Confederate Veterans and delegations of college students and other visitors from all parts of the state participated in the ceremonies.

The monument was designed by P. Wellington Harkness of New York. The central figure depicts a Southern woman, dignified and beautiful, waiting to be crowned with laurel by the figure in the rear. On either side are other figures representing the South, bearing burial to lay at the heroine's feet. The most important inscription on the monument says: "In this monument generations unborn shall hear the voice of a great people testifying to the sublime devotion of the women of South Carolina in the country's need."

Every seat in the house must be in the fifth row on the aisle.

The seating must be so arranged that those who come at the last minute will get the very best seats, while those who buy early will get the undesirable ones.

The theatre must be so arranged that the only shown which can be produced are those which will suit everybody. Those who prefer musical comedy and those who prefer heavy drama must be pleased at the same time.

There will be patent arrangements to drop from the ceiling and yank the hats of ladies who refuse to take them off. The apparatus will yank off not only the hats, but all superfluous bunches of hair as well.

The theatre will be hot and cold at the same time so as to please both the shivering folks and the fresh air fiends.

MISS JOHANNA MAHNS WEDDED YESTERDAY.

Janesville Young Lady Became Bride of Albert Dais of Madison.

Attended by Sisters.
Miss Johanna Mahns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mahns, at four o'clock yesterday afternoon became the bride of Albert Dais of Madison, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. S. W. Fuchs at St. John's German Lutheran church. The bride was attended by her sisters, the Misses Irma and Linda Mahns. The groom's best men were his brothers, Harry and Hartford Dais. After the ceremony the wedding party returned to the home, 1100 McKee boulevard, where supper was served in the dining room which was decorated with ferns and cut flowers. Dancing followed, Kunkel's orchestra playing the music, assisted by Carl Dais of Madison, at the trap drums. Mr. and Mrs. Dais left on a short honeymoon trip, and will be at home May 1, at 314 West Doty street, Madison. Those from Madison who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dais, Harry and Hartford Dais, Miss Louise and Fred Woepel, Mr. and Mrs. F. Mohl, W. Spicer, George O'Connell, H. Ludwig, W. Ludwig, Miss Edna Foster and Frank Wiese. Other out-of-town guests were Mrs. George Edwards and son of Belvidere, Carl Weller of the same city and Mr. and Mrs. C. Courtman and Miss Louise Courtman of Jefferson.

PROBING INTO FIRE DEPARTMENT UNLIKELY

No Action Will be Taken by Fire and Police Commission Unless Proper Complaint is Filed.

Because of the fact that no complaint written in the legally prescribed form has been filed with the secretary of the Fire and Police Commission charging inefficiency in the work of the fire department at the Russell & Behl fire it is extremely unlikely that any action will be taken in the matter. The resolution passed by the Common Council on the motion of Albin C. Gieseling, of the Fire and Police Commission to make an investigation of the department did not serve its purpose for the reason that the board makes no investigation of any department or employee unless complaint is made in the manner prescribed.

ATHENA CLASS HOLDS VERY INTERESTING DEBATE ON QUESTION OF SUFFRAGE

Mrs. W. H. Judd and Mrs. Thos. S. Nolan the Leaders in the Discussion.

That Janesville ladies are interested in the proposed amendment to the state constitution, that will permit women to vote, is evidenced by the fact that at the meeting of the Athena Class, held Wednesday afternoon, this important question was thoroughly debated. Mrs. W. H. Judd was the leader for the affirmative side and Mrs. Thos. S. Nolan for the negative. The arguments pro and con were most earnestly taken up and the class enjoyed the discussion exceedingly.

MOVING MACHINERY INTO NEW QUARTERS

John C. Nichols Harness Manufacturing Company Hopes to Transfer Entire Plant by May 1.

The John C. Nichols Harness company is now busy moving machinery from its old location on South River street to its new quarters near the St. Paul depot, formerly occupied by the Janesville Wholesale Grocery company, and by May 1 expects to have its entire plant transferred and ready for operation.

Most of the machinery moved thus far is that to be used in the collar factory which will be situated in the basement. A number of new tools have been added to the equipment here, among them a collar stuffer, for stuffing the straw into the horse collars. This machine, made by the Fogelberg company of Dayton, Ohio, takes the straw just as it comes from the bale and feeds it from a revolving hopper through a pipe into the collar, a thrust rod on an eccentric producing the pressure. It has a capacity of from forty to fifty dozen collars a day, and this afternoon was given a trial run by the company's representative, John S. Schram. Other machines installed in the collar factory are a "shaper" and "rounder."

The shaper and preparing department will be housed on the first floor and the harness storage and show room on the second. Considerable stock has been transferred here and the machinery moved there is in use. The moving is being carried on in such a manner as to interfere with the process of manufacturing as little as possible.

Young men's

WE HAVE WITH US TODAY—

Joseph M. Dixon.

It must have been a sunny day in Snow Camp, North Carolina, which marked the advent of Joseph M. Dixon to this world. In the little town in which he was born, he is one of the sunniest and most cheerful men in Washington. Now at the age of forty-five he has attained, in an enviable reputation as a leader.

In early childhood he journeyed from his North Carolina home and took up the study of law in the then sparsely settled state of Montana located in Missoula. He grew up with the country, and soon after gaining his majority, engaged in the public lands of his state. From the state house of representatives he was sent to Congress and then was chosen senator.

When Mr. Dixon first threw his lot into the ring, his first trouble was to find the right man to defend it and keep it there. That is where the Montana senator jumped into the nation's spotlight, for he was the first elected to run Roosevelt's campaign.

NOTED AUTHOR TO TALK WITH LIVING

Dr. L. B. Park.

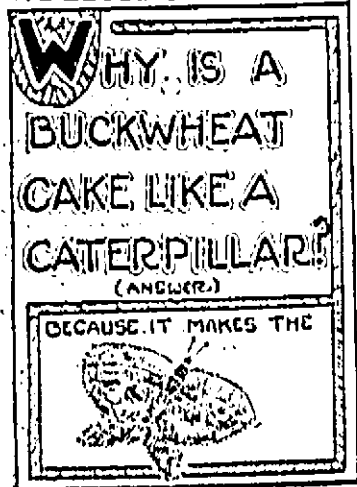

In the death of Dr. L. B. Park, the noted author, clergyman, publisher, a man of unusual accomplishments, will be mourned by his thousands of friends. If his theory of the hereafter holds, however, it is possible that in his death the world will be benefited in no other way. Dr. Park was a firm believer in the utility of those living to communicate with the dead. With this in mind he arranged a private code with a friend by which he would talk to him after death. Both the name of the man who is to receive the communication and the code are entirely secret.

TODAY'S EVANSVILLE NEWS

PARTY WAS GIVEN ON EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. W. H. Hatfield Entertained Tuesday in Honor of Her Husband—
Other Evansville News.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Evansville, April 11.—Mrs. W. H. Hatfield entertained those of her children and grandchildren living near Evansville, and a few friends, Tuesday, April 10th, at a mid-day dinner in honor of her husband's eightieth birthday.

The First Baptist Sunday school very delicately expressed their compliments and good wishes to Mr. Hatfield by presenting him with a splendid potted Easter lily in full bloom. He was also remembered by many friends through birthday post cards.

After dinner his son, W. E. Hatfield and family took Mr. Hatfield, together with his wife, for a long auto ride down through the town of Magnolia and back to Evansville, which made a delightful ending to a long, happy day for this gentleman who, it will be remembered, has been shut in by ill-health most of the past winter.

Landmarks Effaced.

Miss Marilla Andrews, who bought the Woodbury property at the corner of First and Church streets, is having the row of splendid old rock maples cut down and removed. These trees were planted more than half a century ago and are among the most beautiful specimens of their kind in the city, and with their removal one of the oldest landmarks of the town disappears forever. It is sad to see the ruthless hand of man destroy in a day what it has taken nature half a century to accomplish.

These trees are being removed preparatory to laying a cement walk, and in putting the walk down to grade the roots would have to be cut away to such an extent that it would be unsafe to leave the trees standing and no doubt would kill them ultimately. The buildings on this place will be moved onto the south side of Boundary street onto Mrs. Andrews' farm in the near future. Miss Andrews does not contemplate building on the vacant lot at present.

Local News.

Mrs. G. C. Richardson went to Chicago, Wednesday afternoon.

Marion Jones is quite sick with quinsy.

Miss Julia Lauchinger of Brooklyn was an Evansville visitor on Wednesday.

John Frances of Jamesville was in town Tuesday.

Win. Burke has just returned from a two weeks' visit with his daughter in Stoughton. Hoping to get relief from rheumatic troubles, with which he is greatly afflicted, Mr. Burke will try a change of climate. He intends to leave for Santiago, California, the last of the month.

Mrs. James Francis, who has been very ill, is slowly recovering. Her daughter, Mrs. Ed. Hyne, spent Sunday with her.

High school boys were out for baseball practice the first time for the season, Tuesday.

A. D. Ballard received tobacco in Stoughton, Tuesday, loaded two cars at Evansville on Wednesday, and received in Oregon today.

Miss Amy E. P. Richardson returned to her studies at Milwaukee Downer, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. V. A. Astell went to East Chicago, Wednesday, as a delegate to a missionary convention. She will read a paper on some phase of the work at the meeting.

Mrs. Fred Whiston entertained a few friends at dinner the first of the week.

Miss Dorothy Astell spent several days with Ruth Chase at Calumet recently.

Mrs. Chas. Casada went to Leyden, today for a week's visit with her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Conway.

Mrs. Lyman Johnson entertains this afternoon in honor of her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Harper of Madison.

A. S. Baker submitted to a surgical operation Monday morning at Morey hospital in Des Moines, Iowa. Favorable reports of his condition have been received.

Bert Campbell has been in the Presbyterian hospital at Chicago for a week, under treatment for nervous affection of the spine.

The Misses Holt of Brooklyn were Evansville visitors on Wednesday.

Eugene Worthing, an old Evansville boy, was nominated in the primary election in Chicago, Ill., for state senator from the 19th senatorial district in Chicago, on the republican ticket. Mr. Worthing was born in the town of Center and is a cousin of Mrs. Ray Gillman of this city.

Frank Heilman has contracted to build three cottages at Lake Kegonsa and one at Madison this summer. He has engaged the services of Charles Casada as foreman.

The Choral Union met Tuesday evening instead of the usual time, Thursday evening, on account of the lecture to be given on that evening at the Congregational church by Hansanta Roomar Roy, a native of Calcutta.

Robert Hartley has sold a score or more of tickets for the Galski concert at Bolot, May 8th.

There will be a library club special given by the afternoon club at their room in the Library building, April 10. At their Saturday meeting the club accepted the resignation of Mrs. Leo Campbell, president of the club for next year, and unanimously elected Mrs. D. C. Richardson to the vacancy.

Miss Mae Holmes returned to Cambridge, Wednesday morning.

Will Lecture Tonight.

D. K. Roy of Calcutta, India, will give a lecture tonight at the Congregational church on the subject, "Human Brotherhood." The address will begin promptly at eight o'clock and will be given for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. This is the second appearance of Mr. Roy in Evansville and a large audience is expected.

Pioneer Tobacco Growers.

The original planters of fine tobacco in Honduras were Cubans, who brought their seed and methods of curing, and with favorable soil, climate, and labor conditions were successful, their tobacco taking first prize in several international exhibitions; quantities were exported to Cuba and sold as Havana tobacco. These planters became well to do and retired.

Not Profitable.

"Did you hear of the sudden rise today in gas and real estate?"

"No. Was it much of a rise?"

Considerable. A gas pipe blew up and took part of the street with it."

NEW AMBASSADOR TO FRENCH REPUBLIC

Mrs. and Mrs. Myron T. Herrick.

Within a few days ex-Governor Myron T. Herrick, of Ohio, accompanied by Mrs. Herrick, will leave for France where he will assume the duties of American ambassador to that republic. He succeeds Robert Bacon, who recently resigned from the post.

Generally fair weather prevails in the Eastern and Central states today, with moderate temperatures. There have been light rains in the east, Gulf and South Atlantic states. The principal atmospheric disturbances on the weather map today is in the Northwest, where an area of low atmospheric pressure is crowding the northern Rockies. It is attended by showers, and thunderstorms on the northern plains and in the Missouri valley, and light rains or snows in the northern Rockies. Rain continued falling on the Pacific coast yesterday and last night. In this vicinity local showers, and possibly thunderstorms are to be expected tonight or Friday. There will not be much change in temperature.

LARSON-REE WEDDING IS HELD AT FULTON

Home of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Walrath Was Scene of Pretty Wedding Yesterday Afternoon—Other News.

Edgerton, April 11.—Yesterday afternoon at three o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Walrath in Fulton township, occurred the marriage of Miss Theresa Larson of this city and Magnus Rea of Milwaukee. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Linnevald in the presence of near relatives of the contracting parties and invited guests. Following the ceremony a reception was tendered the newly wedded couple, followed by an elaborate four-course dinner.

The bride has resided in this city for the past two years during which time she was employed as a domestic in the family of C. W. Birkenmeyer. The bride and groom formed an acquaintance while on board the ship coming from Christiania, Norway, two years ago. Arriving in America, the young man took up his home in Milwaukee and the young lady in this city. Although not in communication for a long time, not knowing each other's whereabouts, the time finally came when they got in contact through correspondence which soon met with an engagement and ultimate marriage. The couple left on the 4:40 train this afternoon for Milwaukee, their future home. Mr. Rea holding a position of machinist in a manufacturing concern there.

Wedded at Parsonage.

Arthur B. Renshaw of Pleasant Plains, Ill., and Miss Mildred R. Myers of Orangeville, Ill., were united in marriage in this city yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Methodist church parsonage, Rev. G. K. MacLennan, officiating. The couple left on the 4:40 train for Pleasant Plains, Ill., their future home.

Edgerton News Notes.

Mrs. Gertrude McCarthy and Miss Oona Marston returned last night from a few days' trip which they spent in Milwaukee.

Harvey Thomas returned yesterday from the Milwaukee Soldiers' home, having spent the past two months there.

A child born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson on Broadway, Tuesday died the next day. Interment was made yesterday afternoon, Rev. J. C. Stillman conducting the services.

Chairman John Sherman of Fulton township, has had a force of men and teams at work this week improving the road from the city limits to the bridge at Newville, a distance of two miles. The road is now clear of stone and perfectly level. The highway from the cemetery leading to Indian Ford, thence to Kealey's south line is undergoing the same improvement.

Anton Hanson and his wife, Edward, both Stoughton young men, appeared before Justice North this morning on the charge of drunkenness. Not able to produce the bail, they were sentenced to thirty days in the county jail to which place they will be conveyed this afternoon.

HOGS SLUMP AGAIN; TRADING WAS SLOW

Prices Take Another Five-Cent Decline Today on a Slow Market.—Cattle in Demand.

Chicago, April 11.—Hogs seem to be scheduled for a decline at the rate of five cents a day, according to the program which has been carried out so far this week. This drop occurred this morning, according to expectations, and another may be expected tomorrow morning, according to the tone of the market. There was a poor demand for the receipts which were estimated at 19,000. The best hogs reached $7.80 as the top of the market.

Cattle were in better demand today and the receipts of 4,000 head sold with a fairly good demand. There was little change in the sheep market today and prices remained steady. Figures for today are given below:

OCCUPATIONS FOR WOMEN DISCUSSED AT CONFERENCE

Interesting Addresses to Women Students of University Regarding Opportunities.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., April 11.—Miss Abby Marlatt of the domestic science department of the University of Wisconsin was the first speaker at this afternoon's meeting of the Vocational Conference on Opportunities for Women in Occupations Other than Teaching, held at Lathrop hall under the auspices of the women students at the University of Wisconsin. The other speakers were: "Opportunities in Playground Work," Miss Abby S. Mayhew, director of the women's gymnasium of the University of Wisconsin; "Opportunities in Newspaper Work," Miss Bennett of the staff of the Chicago Record-Herald; "Opportunities in Library Work," Miss Imogene Hazeltine, preceptor of the Wisconsin Library school; "Opportunities as Private Secretaries," Miss Stecker, private secretary to Prof. Richard T. Ely, Madison.

STATUTE LOOSELY WORDED IN REGARD TO CONVENTION.

Question Still Exists Regarding Call for Republican Delegate Convention Before Cancellation of Vote.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., April 11.—Because the statute is loosely worded, Gov. McGovern, assumed the duty of giving the call for the republican delegate convention which will be held here on April 16. The law does not state who shall call the convention nor where it shall be held, nor who shall preside. In response to a request for an opinion from Assistant Secretary of State L. H. Nagler, the attorney general has attempted to clear up the doubt over the meaning of the law. According to the law, the delegates are required to meet to elect presidential electors on the third Tuesday in April, but the official canvass of the state vote will not be completed by that time. The attorney general holds that the words "on the third Tuesday of April" means the third Tuesday of the month, and not the third Tuesday succeeding the election.

Mr. Nagler said today that the republican convention will be held pursuant to the call, on April 16, and that an adjournment may be taken if necessary.

Ten Miles of Shade Trees. Kenosha, Wis., April 11.—The people of Kenosha today planted ten miles of shade trees along the bank of the Columbia River as their contribution to the State-wide observance of Arbor Day. Business in the town was generally suspended while the citizens turned out en masse for the tree planting.

FAMOUS AMERICAN INDIANS BY ALBERT PAYSON TERNHUNE GALL.

It was the night after the battle of the Little Big Horn, June 25, 1876. A group of Sioux and Cheyenne chiefs sat about a roaring campfire discussing the day's battle, which had ended in the death of Custer and his men.

From a place of honor beside the fire rose the great medicine man, Sitting Bull. Loudly he chanted his own glory, boasting that his warlike skill and his "medicine magic" had brought about the Indian victory. In the midst of the valiant oration another chief—stately, dignified, strikingly handsome—sprang up from the drowsy group. In fierce invective he cursed Sitting Bull for a liar, a fraud and a coward, declaring that the medicine man kept out of bullet range, mumbling "charms," while better men had borne the peril and labor of the fight.

The savage who thus dared to denounce the mighty Sitting Bull was Gall, chief of the Cheyenne Sioux, and real hero of the Little Big Horn battle. He was one of those odd combinations: an Indian and a rare intellect. He was, moreover, a man of strong intellect and—still more uncommon among the Sioux—had a kindly heart.

A Poor Boy Who Became Great. Gall was born near the Missouri river, South Dakota, in 1840. He began life handicapped by poverty and by the early loss of his father. His widowed mother was poor—even for an Indian. Gall literally "rose from the ranks." In early manhood he found him into local fame. Not only did he win reputation as a fighter, but as a skillful military strategist. He awakened wonder among his tribe folk by his ability to handle a small body of warriors in such manner as to enable them to defeat a far larger force. Rapidly he rose in power until he was war chief of the Cheyennes.

The onrush of emigrants and gold seekers was fast driving the Sioux from their best grounds. Gall, seeing his people slowly crushed out of existence by this march of progress, willingly joined the Indian confederation of tribes that sought to check the white man's advance. Yet he secretly warned white men of his acquaintance to move to a place of safety before hostilities begin.

He, with Sitting Bull, Crazy Horse, Rain in the Face and other noted warriors, commanded several thousand savages who were encamped near the Little Big Horn in the early summer of 1876. When Custer advanced upon the Indian village Gall was chosen as actual leader in the defense. Here the chief's military genius came to the fore. Instead of following regular Indian methods, as Custer probably expected him to, he hit upon a plan as brilliant as it was simple.

Custer divided his forces for the attack. At the head of one body of cavalry he rode toward the village from a certain point, ordering Major Reno, with another detachment, to charge down upon the Indians from a different quarter, hoping thus to catch the redskins "between two fires." Gall promptly sent one band of Indians to meet Reno and hold him in check, forcing him to take the defensive and rendering him helpless to join Custer. Gall himself led the rest of the cavalry in an attack on Custer's detachment.

Gall's Indians surrounded Custer's cavalrymen, galloping about the little army that was vainly waiting for Reno's reinforcement. By Gall's orders they killed or captured the troopers' horses, thus making either a charge or a safe flight impossible. According to Gall's own story, this ruse was so successful that in barely an hour Custer's whole force was annihilated.

From Savage to Judge. Small wonder that the man whose cleverness had devised such a plan of battle should have been furious at hearing Sitting Bull claim all credit for the victory!

Gall, like most of the other chiefs who had fought at Little Big Horn, fled for refuge to Canada when the United States troops swarmed over the country in a mad, futile attempt to avenge Custer's death. There he remained until January 1, 1881, when with his own followers he surrendered to the government. He then settled as a prosperous, peaceful farmer at Standing Rock reservation, and became henceforth the friend of the white man. It was to him, probably, more than to any other leader, that credit was due for the final peace treaty between the government and the Sioux, in 1889. In that same year he was appointed local judge of the "Court of Indian Offenses." He meted out justice with a wise mercy that won praise from savages and white men alike.

Chief Gall died December 5, 1891, after nearly a quarter century of honored and honorable peace.

Superior. Little Nelly told little Anita what she termed a "little lie."

Anita—A lie is the same as a story, and a story is the same as a lie.

Nelly—No, it's not.

Anita—Yes, it is, because my father said so, and my father is a professor at the university.

Nelly—I don't care if he is. My father is a real estate man and he knows more about lying than your father does.—United Presbyterian.

HEART AND HOME TALKS

BY BARBARA BOYD
A Modern Housewife

THE luncheon bell had sounded and she was hurrying down to the dining room, gowning in a very dainty blue silk dress.

"I've just got up," she said to a friend who had unexpectedly dropped in.

The late riser is not a society woman, but a very practical wife and mother, who rents a number of the rooms in her very large house to strangers, who mends and patches her children's clothes, who is an ardent suffragist, a member of women's clubs, an owner of a farm in the Berkshires, a canoeist and a camper of no mean ability—who, in a word, is a modern woman very much alive and interested in all the doings of the day. She and her husband are not poor in the extreme sense of the word, but neither are they wealthy. But she doesn't keep house in the way most women in her circumstances would. She gets more out of life than the old-time method of housekeeping would give her. She employs two maids. She gives the children private instructors. She has furnished the part of the house the family reserve for themselves most artistically. But she doesn't slave from morning until night, overseeing the cooking and dusting and sweeping. She plans the work for her maids and holds them to doing it. In order that she may live in this way—with help, about the housework and leisure for the things she wants—she rents those rooms she does not need. She patches and mends and does the essential things. And the rest of her time and mind she gives to some of the big work women are doing.

She doesn't feel she can afford to buy some of the artistic draperies and small pieces of furniture she desires. So she uses some of the money and leisure she has secured, to study various crafts, and to make the home furnishings she wants.

Her club and other activities bring her in contact with all sorts of interesting people—artists, musicians, writers, people who are doing things—and so she is a bright, interesting and entertaining woman—a vastly different woman from what she would be, if she simply looked after her home and did nothing else.

But, if she doesn't feel like getting up in the morning, she doesn't get up. If her engagements keep her out at the dinner hour, she stays out, knowing that the dinner will be properly cooked and served. And her husband does not consider her an injured man. The two are a devoted couple thoroughly enjoying the same interests. He delights in her brightness, her aliveness, if one may so call it. When she doesn't get up in the morning, he takes her breakfast to her on a tray. They are lovers and chums.

But many women would hold up their hands in horror at this method of housekeeping, and consider that their homes were going to the dogs, if it ran on this plan. But, after all, isn't this better than putting one's nose to the grindstone and eternally keeping it there? Isn't she really a more companionable wife and mother than if she let the housekeeping take all of her time and energy? What she can subordinate, she does subordinate and leaves herself free for better things. Yet this is a decided change from the old idea of housekeeping, when we were supposed to stick right by the wheel, and never relax our grip or our watchfulness. And many women would yet consider that with two children, two maids and a large house to look after, she ought to be up bright and early every morning, and that she ought not to be going around to suffrage meetings and club gatherings, that she ought to be right on the job of housekeeping every minute of the day.

But there is more than one way to look at the housekeeping proposition, and this is one of the newer views some women are taking of it.

Barbara Boyd.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

ONE of the comments which my little talk on the psychology of names called forth was so interesting that I must pass it on. I wrote about the way in which names seem to be used in cycles—now a generation of Ruths, then one of Dorothys, then a flock of Elizabeths. My letter friend writes:

"Uncle Tom's Cabin," which was published, I think, early in 1852, I read about twenty women and girls in July of that year. One of the most lovable characters in the book was Eva, and I know for have known, as some of them have passed away, seven girls who were born between that time and July of 1853 who were named Eva. To one who can recall as far back as I can it is interesting to see that some of the names of my youngest schoolmates (two went to school then at five, and sometimes at four, years of age) are being duplicated now, such as 'Priscilla,' 'Esther,' 'Hester,' 'Margaret,' 'Barbara,' 'Olivia,' 'Molly,' 'Miriam,' and many others.

To any of my readers who can remember the days of which she speaks, I think this comment must be especially interesting.

"It is a great trial to me," said a woman who was born into a very large family and married into another, "that I cannot remember with gifts all the birthdays in our two families, but it is simply impossible. Why, just think, I have fifteen sisters and brothers, real and half, twenty-seven nephews and nieces, and about thirty-five uncles and aunts and cousins. That would mean more than one gift a week if I tried to remember them all."

To this woman and to you, if you are one of those people who like to remember the birthdays of your friends and relatives, but reckon too many of them to afford any real gift, I suggest the plan which one dear old lady of my acquaintance follows. She has a book in which she keeps the birthday dates of all her friends. With the help of this memorandum she sends each of them a card, telling them that she is thinking of them and wishing them happiness throughout the coming year.

Having been a recipient of one of these cards, I know the thrill of pleasure which one feels on being thus unexpectedly remembered and congratulated by someone who was under no obligation to do so.

I recommend the plan to anyone who likes to do kind things.

"I have made up my mind that many unpleasant things are said and done," writes one of my letter-friends most charitably, "simply because people have not had their attention called to them, and I think you might really surprise some people by letting them know that operations are not pleasant subjects for a luncheon table. I have several times had my appetite even going so far as to tell what the doctor found and the amount of pain removed. Now I know that everybody will say it must have been a very ignorant person who would talk of such things, but that is not so. I have in mind a woman of education and standing who did this very thing."

I trust that my friend's optimistic belief that people do things like this simply because they have not had their attention called to them will be justified.

from their mothers. BUT—Experience has shown that in order to obtain the best results in the child, it needs its natural mother's love and attention above all things in the world. There is always something lacking in the child brought up in an institution or without the loving care of some woman who devotes most of her time and thought to it."

"The juvenile court statistics show that most of the delinquent children and embryo criminals come from families where the mother neglects them, or has to leave them to themselves because she must 'work out.' Officers say that in almost every instance of child delinquency under their observation the original fault lies with the parents. That looks to me as if not only the mother but the father was necessary to a child's welfare."

"Just to look at the animal kingdom to find your proof," said a woman who was something of the fur of a kitten in her lap. "Now this little kitten had a good mother. The mother taught her how to clean herself, how to be brave and how to protect herself. This is a well-mannered, clean kitten because she had a well-mannered, clean mother. Past experience has shown me that if I had taken this kitten away from her mother before she had been taught, I would have had on my hands a kitten without any morals. She wouldn't have learned to clean herself nor to obey, even if she hadn't pined away and died in spite of all my care."

"It is the same way with other old animals. The mother is a supreme necessity to the babies. If they lose her when they are very young they almost surely die. If they live they are sort of depraved, in spite of all the human teaching they might get afterward."

"It's the same way with chickens," spoke up a little woman, who makes more "pin money" in the chicken business than her husband's salary in an office position amounts to.

"Incubator chickens are cannibals. If one of them is hurt the others will fall upon it and tear it to pieces and pick the bones. The chickens brought up by a motherly hen never seem to do that. Incubator chicks don't seem to have any morals or any sense. I've come to the conclusion that a good deal of what we call 'instinct' in chickens is simply wisdom handed down from one generation to the other. The old hen teaches the chicks."

SOME USEFUL DISHES.

An omelet that is not common is: Ginger Omelet.—Beat five eggs until light, add two tablespoonsful of sugar, a little grated rind of lemon peel and a bit of nutmeg. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in an omelet pan and pour in the mixture. Have ready two tablespoonsful of chopped preserved ginger mixed with a tablespoonful of ginger syrup; put in the center of the omelet, roll and turn out on a heated dish and serve.

Stewed Kidneys.—Skin and cut up four kidneys, put on to a plate with one chopped shallot, a quarter of a teaspoonful of powdered herbs, a pinch of salt and pepper and a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce. Roll each piece of kidney in the seasoning, put a tablespoonful of butter in a pan, and when hot brown the kidneys. Add a half cup of stock after adding a tablespoonful of flour to the butter, and simmer the kidneys very slowly five minutes. Serve with the sauce poured around the meat.

Fish Pudding.—Take any kind of cold cooked fish, twice the quantity of cold boiled potatoes, pepper, salt and red pepper, drippings or butter, egg or milk. Remove all the bones from the fish and chop it, then rub the potatoes through a sieve with a wooden spoon, add to the fish, season and add a tablespoonful of melted butter for every part of the mixture. Melt with egg or milk and put in a well greased mold to bake twenty minutes. Serve with:

Egg Sauce.—Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a sauce pan, add a tablespoonful of flour, then add a cup of milk. Cook until smooth and cook for five minutes. Add salt, pepper and a hard cooked egg chopped fine, and serve.

Cottage Pie.—Rub cold cooked potatoes through a sieve; butter a deep pudding dish, put in a layer of potatoes, then a layer of meat; add a little pepper, salt and a little gravy. Continue until the dish is full. Score with a fork and dot with pieces of butter.

Heart and Home Problems

by MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am seventeen years of age and have been engaged for a year to my second cousin who is thirty. (1) Is he too old for me? We love each other very dearly, but my grandparents oppose my marrying him because he drinks and smokes a trifle and because he is a musician. (2) Are musicians any worse than other men? (3) Should cousins marry? (4) Please give me a recipe for Mexican chili con carne.

ANXIOUS.

(1) I should say that you are too young to be engaged to him rather than that he is too old for you. Unless you are different from most girls of seventeen, you have seen too little of life to be engaged to any man. Most girls imagine themselves in love several times before they meet the man they finally marry. Your grandparents are wise in opposing your marriage to a man who drinks even a little. (2) Your grandparents probably think that this particular musician is not the right man for you. They may know that he is not enough of a genius to support you with his music alone, and even if he were, could not make you happy. (3) First cousins could never marry and it is not well for second cousins to do so. (4) The following is Mrs. Alice Mitchell Kirk's recipe for Mexican chili con carne: One-half pound round steak, one onion, one-half of a green sweet pepper, one teaspoon chili powder, one-half can tomatoes, one-half cup flour, one bay leaf, one-half pint Mexican chili beans or same amount of canned kidney beans, one cup of salt and water and two tablespoons peanut oil or olive oil or lard. Cut meat fine in food chopper, put oil or lard in spider and when hot add sliced onion. Cook until tender but not brown. Add sliced pepper, being sure to remove seeds and veins, and add all the remaining ingredients with the cup of boiling water. Simmer gently about ten minutes. Rub the flour smooth in a little cold water or milk, and add to the above, stirring gently so as not to break the beans. More water may be added if necessary. If you wish to use Mexican chili beans soak over night and cook as other dry beans until tender.

A letter has been received from Taylor, Pa., bearing no signature. If the writer will send an addressed stamped envelope to me I will make a personal reply.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) When carpets are sprinkled with salt before sweeping does the small amount of salt which remains do them any harm? (2) I have an iron kettle which I use every few days for soup. I put it away dry in a dry place, but always find it rust when I take it out for use again. Will anything prevent this?

MRS. P. L.

(1) No, the remaining salt will not harm the carpets and it may tend to make them brighter. (2) Grease the kettle before putting it away, and cover it to keep the rust out.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What can I do to remove ink spots from table linen?

ROSE BUD.

(1) Molesten with lemon juice several times. This will loosen the stain; then washing and boiling will remove it. (2) If you will send me an addressed envelope I will answer your second question direct.

Dinner Stories

In a suffrage debate in Omaha last month Miss Millie M. Miller, the suffragist leader, and Dr. D. C. Thompson, Morton, the anti-suffragist, plinked one another very neatly with barbed stories.

"Women are cold, callous, calculating," said Dr. Thompson. "I know a youth in Omaha youth, who, overboiling with passionate love, laid his heart at a pretty Omaha girl's feet."

"That she was silent," "And she was silent," "I offer you my soul's devotion, my lifelong worship, speak!"

"That she was still silent," "And she was still silent," "I lay my most cherished ambition in the dust before you. Will you not speak?"

"And at last the girl spoke—spoke calmly, coolly," "Is the business," she said, "in your mother's name or your own?"

"And the counterthrust came from Miss Miller as follows: "A young girl stood dreaming by the window, awaiting the arrival of her betrothed."

"What will Jimmie say?" she mused, "when I tell him I have secured a $25 job on the woman's page of the Daily Driver? Will he fold me in his heart and cry 'Mercenary Girl! Your job is here, here within these arms?' Or will he, perchance, murmur 'A $25 job on the Daily Driver! Ah, dear one, not though it were a $25 job would I consent to spare to others one moment of that sweet presence which must be mine, all mine, forevermore!' Or may it not even be that Jimmie, smothering me with kisses, will say, 'Jobs? Speak not of jobs. I can hear nothing, see nothing, stoned, blinded as I am by beauty.'"

"At that moment a trolley car, pinging and clanging, glided by. A tall and manly form leaped from the platform and ran up to the steps of the house, and a moment later the girl was folded, crushed, in two strong arms. She, pushing the young man gently back, said:

"Jimmie, love, I have secured a $25 job on the Daily Driver's woman's page."

"Jimmie said, in answer: "Is it permanent?"

Originality is half the art of advertising nowadays. In the window of a shoe store in New York is a card bearing the following injunction: "Patronize me and cheat the chap next door."

The chap next door is an undertaker.

HOW TO MAKE GOOD BUTTERMILK AT HOME.

You can make the best buttermilk any day in your own kitchen. And there is nothing better for digestive disorders, and especially for intestinal troubles, or as a substitute in infant feeding, in certain cases.

You can get at the drug store tablets containing the lactic acid bacterium culture that will convert sweet milk into full cream, buttermilk by simply dropping a tablet into a quart bottle of milk and maintaining the proper temperature, according to the instructions. Not only because this full cream buttermilk contains the fat in emulsified form is it better than the buttermilk you buy of the buttermilk man, but because the lactic acid bacterium prevents the development of injurious bacteria in the milk. This is important in the case of infants. Cholera infantum, some forms of diarrhoea and perhaps typhoid can be avoided in this way.

Starch Puffs.—With the berries in the sauce only, form another delightful dessert. Heat one pint of milk in a double boiler and stir in one-quarter cup of milk rubbed smooth with the same amount of butter. Heat and cook until it is thickened then take from the fire, add one-quarter cup of sugar, a pinch of salt, one-quarter cup of very fine bread or crumbs, two eggs beaten lightly and one-third teaspoon of vanilla. Fill buttered gem of muffin pans half full and bake in a moderate oven.

For the sauce dissolve one level tablespoon of corn starch and a pinch of salt in two tablespoons of cold water, add one cup of boiling water and cook ten minutes, add one-half cup of mashed strawberries sweetened with sugar and also a teaspoon of lemon juice. Simmer a few minutes, then add a rounding teaspoon of butter.

One cup of ripe strawberries will make a fine strawberry sauce. Crush them with a wooden spoon into a soft mass, add one cup of cold water and strain through a coarse cheese cloth or a fine wire strainer.

Add one-half cup of powdered sugar, the strained juice of one lemon and three cups of cold water. Set in the top of the ice chest next to the ice and it will become very cold. Serve as wanted garnished with a whole strawberry or a very thin slice of lemon on each glass.

Strawberry sherbet requires two cups of juice strained from mashed berries. Make a syrup from one and one-half cups of sugar cooked twenty minutes with four cups of water, add the strawberry juice and one tablespoon of lemon juice. Strain and freeze.

A simple strawberry cream is made from two cups of mashed strawberries and one and one-half cups of sugar allowed to stand until the sugar is melted. Press through a strainer to take out the seeds, add two cups of thick cream and freeze.

Strawberry dumplings are also economical of berries. Sift two cups of pastry flour with three level teaspoons of baking powder, one-half level teaspoon of salt and rub in one-quarter cup of butter. Mix with about one-half cup of milk and roll out one-quarter of an inch thick. Cut in small rounds and put three berries on each, fold over and steam twenty minutes. Put the dumplings either on a rack in the steamer or in buttered cups.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING

Making the Most of the First Boxes of Strawberries.

By Alice E. Whitaker.

Early in the season, strawberries cost enough to be counted a luxury and it is well to make them go as far as possible. When they are cheaper they can be used, two boxes at a time, with a lavish hand.

If it is possible to get cream thick enough to heat well a strawberry mousse is unexcelled. Heat two cups of cream until thick, add a pinch of salt and two cups of strawberries, mashed fine with one-half cup of powdered sugar or more if needed to make it sufficiently sweet. Fill a mold put on cover and pack in equal parts of ice and salt. Let stand five hours and when unmolded the mousse will be frozen in a sort of moss-like texture, and will be of an attractive pink color. Serve with angel or corn starch cake.

Strawberry puffs, with the berries in the sauce only, form another delightful dessert. Heat one pint of milk in a double boiler and stir in one-quarter cup of milk rubbed smooth with the same amount of butter. Heat and cook until it is thickened then take from the fire, add one-quarter cup of sugar, a pinch of salt, one-quarter cup of very fine bread or crumbs, two eggs beaten lightly and one-third teaspoon of vanilla. Fill buttered gem of muffin pans half full and bake in a moderate oven.

For the sauce dissolve one level tablespoon of corn starch and a pinch of salt in two tablespoons of cold water, add one cup of boiling water and cook ten minutes, add one-half cup of mashed strawberries sweeten-

One cup of ripe strawberries will make a fine strawberry sauce. Crush them with a wooden spoon into a soft mass, add one cup of cold water and strain through a coarse cheese cloth or a fine wire strainer.

Add one-half cup of powdered sugar, the strained juice of one lemon and three cups of cold water. Set in the top of the ice chest next to the ice and it will become very cold. Serve as wanted garnished with a whole strawberry or a very thin slice of lemon on each glass.

Strawberry sherbet requires two cups of juice strained from mashed berries. Make a syrup from one and one-half cups of sugar cooked twenty minutes with four cups of water, add the strawberry juice and one tablespoon of lemon juice. Strain and freeze.

A simple strawberry cream is made from two cups of mashed strawberries and one and one-half cups of sugar allowed to stand until the sugar is melted. Press through a strainer to take out the seeds, add two cups of thick cream and freeze.

Strawberry dumplings are also economical of berries. Sift two cups of pastry flour with three level teaspoons of baking powder, one-half level teaspoon of salt and rub in one-quarter cup of butter. Mix with about one-half cup of milk and roll out one-quarter of an inch thick. Cut in small rounds and put three berries on each, fold over and steam twenty minutes. Put the dumplings either on a rack in the steamer or in buttered cups.

The sauce should be made earlier and chilled. Cream one-quarter cup of butter, add slowly one-half cup of powdered sugar and then one cup of strawberries one or two at a time beating them to a pulp.

Jellied strawberries may be chilled in a large mold or for individual service. First make a jelly from one and one-quarter level tablespoons of gelatin soaked in one-half cup of cold water for half an hour. Add one and one-quarter cups of boiling water and stir until the gelatin is dissolved. Add one cup of sugar, the juice of one lemon and one orange. Strain over one quart of berries that have been picked over and rinsed lightly in cold water. When firm, turn from the mold and garnish with whipped and sweetened cream.

SOME WORKING GIRLS LOSE TOO MUCH TIME

Two Girls Tell How To Avoid It.

There is nothing that touches more than experience. We therefore quote from the letters of two girls who suffered and were restored to health. The same remedy is within reach of all.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"Prior to taking the first bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered agony every month, but after your wonderful medicine had been taken a while I felt a little better, and after taking seven bottles of it I feel that I can truly say I have no more pain or inconvenience."

"As I am out in the business world as a stenographer, I come in contact with many girls, and when the opportune moment arrives I tell them about the Vegetable Compound and I know that quite a few are taking it."—HILLEN CANETT, 556 Dean St.

Another Girl's Experience.

Tishomingo, Okla.—"I am a stenographer and book-keeper, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound has saved my life. I am enjoying the best of health now, but I was suffering from female troubles and painful periods, and would have backache, headache and fainting spells. If any woman would like to write to me I will gladly answer her letter and tell her what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. MATTIE COPELANDER, Tishomingo, Okla.

Danderine

Stops Falling Hair and Destroys Dandruff

Makes the Hair Grow Long, Heavy and Luxuriant and We Can Quickly Prove It

If You Wish to Double the Beauty of Your Hair at Once, Just Get a 25 Cent Bottle and Try This

Surely try a Danderine Hair Cleanse if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair with little trouble and at a cost not worth mentioning—just moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few moments you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of Dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. It's exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It at once imparts a sparkling brilliancy and elasticity to the hair, and a few weeks use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

TALKS with our WOMEN READERS

by Edna K. Wooler

They were all talking about sorts of interesting things, as women do when the men aren't around (by the way, a lot of men never realize how interesting the women can be and how they can thoroughly enjoy themselves without masculine company), when someone happened to mention the

New York judge who declared a while ago that "a mother is not necessary to her child."

"This judge had awarded the custody of a nine-year-old to his father, contrary to the pleadings of the mother and to justify his action, stated: 'All children are selfish. So long as they have their toys and enjoyments, why, a lot of men never realize how interesting the women can be and how they can thoroughly enjoy themselves without masculine company,' when someone happened to mention the new York judge who declared a while ago that "a mother is not necessary to her child."

TOO MUCH EMPHASIS ON GRADUATE SCHOOL

STATE SUPERINTENDENT CARY
POINTS OUT PERTINENT FACTS REGARDING UNIVERSITY.

SYSTEM IS TOP-HEAVY

More Attention and Better Instruction for Under-Graduates All Needed and Fewer Ph. D. Degrees.

Following is another letter by State Supt. C. P. Cary on matters relative to the state university and the school system in Wisconsin. It contains some very pertinent facts on the condition and is given below:

To Teachers and the General Public:
Wisconsin is educationally top-heavy. It is equally true that the state university is itself top-heavy.
Recently the president of a western state university in a public address spoke of the graduate school as constituting the "genuine university."
Our own state institution is more fully committed to the theory of looking after the interests of the one in ten or fifteen who already have a college diploma than is any other state institution with which I am acquainted. Such a procedure is justifiable only on the basis that the relatively few students who have completed the four years of college work and are enrolled in the university for graduate studies are of more importance than the many who are in the freshman, junior and senior classes. I do not believe such a position can be maintained by argument for a moment among intelligent people outside college walls. The mere statement of the conditions is sufficient refutation of the most elaborate and wordy arguments in defense of such a theory.

The fact is that in large part the shortcomings of our institution are due to the great emphasis placed upon this small fraction of the university work, coupled as it is with the unduly manipulated importance of the research idea. The university of Wisconsin is maintained by the people chiefly for the sake of the boys and girls who go to college, including the college of engineering, of agriculture, and the like, and not for the few who continue their studies beyond college.
The center of gravity of a state university should be in the colleges, particularly in the college of letters and science, which may properly be looked upon as the heart of the institution. Here the most capable teachers should be employed especially in the instruction of freshmen and sophomores.

Parents send their boys and girls
to the university to take up college work assuming that they will have the best possible instruction. But with certain notable exceptions here
and there, they cannot get the best instruction until they have been in college at least two years. I have in the past four or five years talked with many graduates of the university who say that not to exceed one-half of the instruction they received could be called good. The other half fell below that standard. It should be borne in mind also that these students as a rule did their utmost to select for themselves the capable teachers.

If you ask university authorities
why this is so, they will tell you that it is because they have not money enough to employ strong and capable teachers. At least that is what they have told me. If the center of gravity of the institution were in the college instead of the graduate school, this condition would not exist. The college would be looked after first, and then such money, time, energy, and teaching ability as remained for the graduate school would be devoted to it.

A study of the students in any graduate school usually reveals certain rather striking facts. One is that a goodly number of them, say one-third are on pay either in the form of fellowships or salaries. If my count is correct, about 125 are at this time on the pay roll of the university. These people are giving instruction or assisting in laboratories while carrying on their advanced studies. Except for a few rather flourishing departments,
the number of graduate students in any one subject is small. The efforts to secure these graduate students are often strenuous. Professors frequently urge students to remain with them after graduation, and efforts are made to secure students from other colleges and universities at the close of their senior year. They are tempted with fellowships yielding $200 a year, or teaching positions yielding $500 a year, or positions in the capital paying a like amount.

It may be interesting at this point to remember that university professors quite frequently say that many of the graduate students manifest very ordinary ability. Indeed it is said that many of them at college graduation are not successful in securing good positions and hence continue their studies in the hope that something worth while may later turn up. The most highly prized dis-gree students get on the completion of their advanced study is called the degree of doctor of philosophy (Ph. D.).
To secure this degree a student must continue in the university three years
after graduating from a four year college course. These graduates are often called specialists or experts.
Does the world seem eager to secure the services of these experts? The president of a great state university remarked a few years ago, partly in jest, that you could get such men by the car load at $1,000 a year. Sometimes more fortunate than this, however, and get salaries as high as $1,500. But few graduates more than $1,200 unless they are unusually mature in years and successful in experience.

Last June our university turned out seventeen such graduates, or about three for every hundred who completed the regular college course and received a bachelor's degree. On the average, these students received over $500 each last year from the university, 84% did not receive any money. Where are these people at the present time and what are they doing? Three of them are instruc-

FEMALE CHARACTERS FEW IN SHAKESPEARE

Only 157 Feminine Roles Out of a Total of 1,277 Characters
Depicted by Great Dramatist.

"It has been discovered by an industrious devotee of Shakespeare," says H. N. Sothern, "that the plays in their entirety contain 1,277 characters. Of these only 157 are females, a very small proportion of the total number—and I have sometimes wondered if Shakespeare would not have created more female characters for his dramas if it had not been for the fact that these roles had always,

of necessity, to be played by boys,
since women were not allowed on the stage in the poet's time. This condition must have been a drawback to the dramatist's creative genius. It is difficult to imagine a boy impersonating Ophelia or Juliet—and in our day
such a proceeding would be abhorrent.
But imagine the tremendous fertility of the mind that created 1,277 diverse characters. And, by the way, have you ever noticed that many of Shakespeare's most poetic lines, many of the most wonderful and most beautifully expressed, are put in the mouths of some of the very subordinate characters—and, oh! what a feeling I have frequently had when I listened to subordinate actors wrestling with those pearls of great price. However, to return to our Shakespearean Non-thought, with a mind for statistics as well as poetry. He finds that the plays contain 814,780 words, divided into 106,007 lines. The longest play is Hamlet with 2,350 lines, and the longest part is the principal character
therein, Hamlet has 1,610 words to speak. The briefest play is "The Comedy of Errors." In that there are only 1,577 lines."

Stage Educationally Considered.

The engagement of Sothern and Marlowe in Shakespearean repertoire
at the Myers Theater Wednesday evening April 17, in "The Taming of the Shrew" calls attention to a matter that is not generally acknowledged—the educational value of the stage.
Wherever Sothern and Marlowe are booked to appear it has been found that the Shakespearean departments of the public libraries are given a dusting and volumes brought into use. Many a set of Shakespeare in a private library which has lain untouched for many years is suddenly pounced upon and read with eager delight.

That the proper rendering of the plays induces general interest in the poet's works has been proved time and again. Only a short time ago a theatre-goer of a western city attending a performance of the Sothern and Marlowe company in Macbeth, re-wrote Mr. Sothern that he was so delighted with the play that he had taken down his undated Shakespeare, and "read not only this, but all the plays for the first time, with supreme and ecstatic delight."
It is by hearing pure English that we learn to speak and think it, and so the dramatist whose diction is correct and elegant serves the mother tongue
a good turn. A fine play elevates our thoughts, clears the mind of rhetorical corruptions and sets up a new standard. The only woman in the class is now married and living in Madison. The other thirteen are scattered to the four winds, but all of them are outside the state.

From a common sense of view, is it worth all the bother that is made about it? Should the center of gravity be in the graduate school?

A distinguished educator and citizen of Boston said in the Popular Science Monthly for October, 1908,
"The course of American scholarship and of American education is the Ph.
D." And so it is. If it diverts attention from the proper education of the mass of college students.

Respectfully yours,
C. P. CARY,
State Superintendent.

ENDS DYSPEPSIA IN FEW MINUTES

Gas, Heartburn, Sourness, Indigestion and All Stomach Misery Cured
With Diapepsin.

There would not be a case of indigestion here if readers who are subject to stomach trouble knew the tremendous anti-ferment and digestive virtue contained in Diapepsin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest fuss
or discomfort, and relieve the sourest acid stomach in five minutes, besides overcoming all foul, nauseous odors
from the breath.

Ask your pharmacist to show you
the formula, plainly printed on each 50-cent case of Diapepsin, then you will readily understand why this promptly cures indigestion and removes such symptoms as Heartburn, a feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, belching of gas and flatu-
lence, undigested food, water brash, Nausea, Headache, Bloating, and many other bad symptoms; and, besides you will not need laxatives to keep your stomach, liver and intestines clean and fresh.

If your stomach is sour and full of gas, or your food doesn't digest, and your meals don't seem to fit, why not get a 50-cent case from your druggist and make life worth living? Absolute relief from stomach misery and perfect digestion of anything you eat is sure to follow five minutes after, and besides, one case is sufficient to cure
a whole family of such trouble.

Surely, a harmless, inexpensive preparation like Diapepsin, which will always either at daytime or during night, relieve your stomach misery
handy and valuable a thing as you and digest your meals, is about as could have in the house.

A Baseball Romance

By W. A. PHELON

(Copyright, 1912, by W. A. PHELON)

"The explanations" are honorably finished, Mr. Brockett. You have now the fullest comprehension of the complete proceedings. It is now to ask—what shall you, being victorious, do with us, being honorably defeated?"

"I suppose," responded Brockett, "that we ought to have you run in. Still, that might cause unpleasant complications. I don't care to have the morning papers and everyone who reads them—fully posted as to the reasons for your attack upon me, Mr. Yazimoto. On careful consideration of the whole affair, I am strongly tempted to let you go. Don't you think that would be best, Hamon?"

The Cuban gave unqualified assent.

"They didn't get what they were after, Harry, and they did get a trimming that they won't forget in a hurry. Let them be on their way, and in a hurry."

Brockett conducted his prisoners to the door, and dismissed them with a ceremonious bow.

"Good-night, Mr. Yazimoto. Come again."

The Filipino limped sullenly away, but Mr. Yazimoto turned, with a smile that illuminated his scarred face for an instant.

"Good-night, Mr. Brockett. You have been most honorably generous. It may be so, sometime, I have excellent opportunity to repay. Good-night."

CHAPTER V.

After the vanquished Orientals had departed, Brockett and Solano proceeded to investigate the thick envelope which Mike McKane had brought them. The messenger sat by—a wise little owl and a loyal one—while Mrs. Brockett and Bertha fluttered to and fro, still more or less excited by the events of the evening.

A packet of yellow-backed bills was first brought to light, and then a letter, penned in the firm hand of Chief Williams. Another sheet was next opened, revealing the handwriting of General Cole, which was not unfamiliar to young Brockett. Both boys were relieved and pleased to find that nothing typewritten had been sent them.

"No chance for any treachery there," remarked Solano, as Chief Williams' letter was placed upon the table. "If your stenographer counted on getting a copy of this particular document, she loses."

"Simple enough," remarked Brockett, as he finished the letter. "Tomorrow morning, you will go by air-circulus a route as can be traveled within eight days to Rancho Nogal, where you will find Gomez Batoni. Give him letter and cipher key. Being reply."

"Easily understood," commented Solano. "We can doubtless find Rancho Nogal on the maps, and we are to go there by air roundabout a road as possible—within a limited space of time. Reasons for the circuitous journey are easily seen. Our tropical friends, the little brown men, might be trailing us. What does the general say?"

"His letter is short and to the point," answered Brockett, spreading out the scroll, worded in this fashion:

"Pos To SH PO PA Pos L TC 2H11 IR T SH PO SH TO TO SH W PH HA SH WP AB W IR E 2H11 W SH FA PO WP."

"At El Paso, give letter and key to Colonel Lewis, Sixth cavalry. Simple enough, but do we see the colonel on our way there, or coming back?"

"Probably left to our own judgment and convenience," answered Solano. "Now, then, let's locate Rancho Nogal."

"I think I have found the place, Harry," spoke up Bertha Brockett. "While you were reading the last message, I glanced along the map of the Mexican border—good thing we have an atlas—and located Rancho Nogal. It seems to be a small station, perhaps ten miles south of Presidio del Norte, in Chihuahua."

"Some names, then," remarked Mike McKane. "Howell will I ever get the hang of 'em?"

"You, Mickey," laughed Solano. "For get them before you sprain your tongue."

"Forgot nothing," replied the messenger boy. "I got to learn 'em just the same as you two."

"How do you figure that out, Mike?" queried the amused Brockett. The stubby messenger grinned back at him.

"Because I'm going along with you two. See? I got in on this thing so far, and it looks better'n all the Old Bluth an' Nick Carter stuff that was ever pulled. You gotta take me in, for I'm going. If you don't count me in, I'll follow anyhow, an' reckon you two ginks when the enemy has got you by a toothhold."

Mr. McKane's declaration, naturally, was received with hilarious laughter. "Not a chance, Mickey, not a chance," cried Brockett. "You couldn't get away without losing your job, for one thing; for another, you'd go broke before you had traveled two hundred miles, and, finally, if you ever did manage to get as far as Mexico, they'd shoot you for a monkey."

"I'll take my chances, any time," returned the messenger. "As for the monkey part of it, look out you two ain't put on exhibition in a cage. And as for me, never worry. I'm a-goin', I can see, plain enough, you two don't want me along. That's all right. I ain't kickin'. Maybe the chief wouldn't stand for no three in a bunch where he only counts on two, so I got nothin' to say. But you two guys just watch. Just keep your lamp open when you're down among the greasers, an' see if Mickey the Marvellous Messenger ain't campin' on your trail! I gotta be goin' now. Good-night, Mr. Brockett, Good-night, Miss Bert. I'll see you two heroes a little later."

"Great kid that," laughed Brockett, as the sound of Mike's footsteps died away. "I only wish we could take him along. He might be useful."

eyes danced with humor.

"Harry, I have a bat that you have wanted for the last two seasons—a bat made of Cuban hardwood, and one that can't be broken. You have a ball that the great Delehanty gave you the week before he died. I'll risk that bat against that ball that Mickey turns up somewhere along the road, and makes good on all he said. Is it a bet?"

A TIZ BATH MY BOY, A TIZ BATH! YOU CAN'T BEAT IT FOR SORE FEET, CORNS AND BUNIONS!

"I can use that bat," answered Brockett, "and that seems an easy way to get it. All right—consider the bet made."

"Mrs. Brockett—Bertha," cried Solano, "I solemnly book you as my witnesses. You are to see that Harry pays up, and that he hands over the genuine ball, not something he buys downtown and palms off to save his treasures."

Discussion of the route to be followed and of the outfit needed for the trip occupied the youngsters till late into the night. It was promptly agreed that the greater part of whatever might be required for Mexican journeys could be bought near the border, and that it would be foolish to carry a heavy bulk of any kind during the earlier stages of the trip. The packet of yellow-backed bills, of course, was counted up, and found to amount to rather more money than Brockett had ever handled, even in his family's more affluent days. There was $2,500 in the packet, and Brockett attempted to make an equitable division, only to be negatived by the Cuban.

"Keep it all," said Solano. "I will take as much with me. Remember, this is my vacation, my summer holiday. Your government cannot pay my expenses. No, no. I won't take it."

"Have your own way," Brockett answered. "I know I cannot make you accept anything when you are so anxious to spend your own money. Don't you think we should, at least, arm ourselves before starting? We can get horses and heavy weapons in Texas or New Mexico, but how about a small revolver, or something of the sort, to carry when we leave here? We may not have seen the last of Mr. Yazimoto and his Filipino friend."

"Exactly," assented Solano. "I think I have just what we need. I happen to own two curious little French pistols. They are four-shot guns, perfectly fat—half an inch at the thickest part. Instead of having a revolving cylinder, they have a four-barreled device, one above another, and it automatically rises as each shot is fired, bringing a fresh cartridge in line with the muzzle. They throw a 25-caliber, steel-jacketed ball—small, of course, but with plenty of penetrating power. It seems to me that those are about what we need—anyhow, I'll bring them over in the morning."

"Sounds great to me," said Brockett. "Well, then, let's return to discussing our route. Question before the house: How to reach the Nogal Ranch within eight days, and yet to cover as large an extent of country as possible, and in as crisis-crossed, intricate a fashion as we can?"

"Why not go to New York?" suggested Mrs. Brockett. "You could throw almost any pursuer off your track in the mazes of Manhattan, and then take your choice of an immense number of trains when you wished to resume your journey."

"The idea is excellent," said Solano. "We could give even our esteemed chief the slip in New York, I believe. Then go north into Canada, west to Chicago, and keep turning on our tracks—with due regard to the passage of time—and so regulate our travels as to arrive on the Mexican border one day inside the time limit. Doesn't that seem feasible?"

"Entirely," Brockett acquiesced. "We will make New York the real starting place of our adventures, then, how early can you get up tomorrow?"

"I will rout you out of bed at six," asserted the Cuban. "Better set the alarm so that I won't frighten you all to death when I begin to ring."

And, with a few choice bits of nonsense as parting salutes, Solano started home, leaving Brockett to a final study of the cipher-penned instructions.

Curious Bits of History

FIRST CONSUMPTION OF ANTHRACITE COAL.

By A. W. MACY.

The use of anthracite coal as fuel is of comparatively recent origin. The first organized effort to mine it was made in 1793, but regular shipments were not made till 1820. The first anthracite used as fuel was a boatload sent from Wilkesbarre, Pa., to Carlisle, for the army there. It was not used as fuel in private houses till 1808, when Judge Fell of Philadelphia had grates built into his house and tried it. But it came very slowly into general use, and by 1820 only 365 tons had reached Philadelphia. It was first employed to generate steam in 1825. It was not used as exclusive fuel in manufacturing till 1839. The total production of anthracite in the United States for the year 1909 was more than 80,000,000 tons. The deposit in Pennsylvania covers 500 square miles.

A Gazette Want Ad Can't Be Lost.

It's the Biggest Thing in the Paper to the Person Interested.

Don't get the impression that because your advertising appropriation is limited, and because of this you can only run small "Want" Ads each day, that your ad will become "lost" or overlooked among the hundreds of others.

When your ad meets the eye of The Gazette reader who is interested in what you wish to sell, rent or secure, it impresses that reader more strongly than all other ads combined.

Your "Want" Ad placed in The Gazette will reach the "Interested reader" more quickly than could be done through the use of any other Rock Co. newspaper, because The Gazette is read by over 8,000 families every day.

Experience proves that Gazette Wants are read through and through by thousands every day.

ARTICLE ON CARE
OF SETTING HENS;
SUGGESTIONS MADE

Advice to the Beginner in Regard to Hatching of Chicks by Old Style Method.
(By F. J. Holt.)

As the days have grown warmer it is time to set the hen, or hens. By the time the chicks are hatched the weather will be pretty well settled and the care of the chicks will not be as great as at this time. Chances of chilling the eggs are not to be thought of as the hens will attend to their work with a willingness, whereas when it gets warmer the hens multiply fast and the hens soon leave the nests.

The fact that there is a right and a wrong way of setting hens is seldom thought of. A great deal of the success of the hatch depends upon the way in which the hen is set, so I take this time to give my views upon the matter. The hen is the incubator that is used by nearly all the amateurs in the business and my advice is that all those who have been in the work for some time just place all the eggs under hens instead of trusting to the wooden hen. Nature's way cannot be improved upon and the strength of chicks by hens is what it should be.

Where are the hens to be set and what kind of a nest will you use? are the first things to be decided. These two facts are very important as upon them depends much of the success of the project. Many times the hens are set just where they happen to be found. But this place may be too light, where there is too much noise, too frequent visiting by people for various things, too dry or too damp. Select a place that is secluded so that the hen will not be disturbed by anyone. Have the place as dark as possible and where the rains will not have a chance to run under the nest but not so far from the ground that the nest will be very dry and thus cause all the moisture to evaporate from the egg. If necessary sprinkle a little lukewarm water upon the eggs every fourth day but be careful not to soak them. Keep the nest out of reach of rats or other vermin or a box so that no rat can get into it. Many good eggs are lost each season by rats, mice and other animals taking them from the nest while the hens are setting.

Now let us consider the nest that will fill the bill. Any old box will not do if best results are to be secured. If the wrong kind of a nest is used the eggs may get chilled or broken. This can be looked after before the hen is set if careful study is given the matter. Make the nest just large enough to allow the hen to turn around easily. A nest that is from 12 to 15 inches square and as high as about the correct size. As hens differ in size so will the nests have to. Have all the nest except the front enclosed tightly. In the front have a board five inches high and the rest of the front open. Do not nail the top of the nest down, but leave it loose so that you may take it off when you wish to look at the hen. The board in front will keep the litter in the nest and not allow the eggs to roll out. Do not pull the hen off the nest through the front, but lift the top and remove her in that way. If the hen is pulled off the nest through the front some eggs must be removed and broken, but if she is taken off from above this cannot be. Place a thickness of newspapers in the bottom of the box for this will prevent any draft from coming up through the bottom of the nest and will help to retain the moisture as well. Upon this place a piece of sod the size of the nest with the grass side down. This will furnish moisture enough as a rule. Hollow out the center of the sod and then place the chaff upon this sod. Your nest is ready for the hen. Allow the hen to go onto it and make the form as she wishes. Care must be taken so that the nest is not too shallow.

Do not place more than thirteen eggs under the hen. You may place fifteen but the chances are that some will become chilled, whereas if thirteen are placed under her she will cover them all and a much better hatch will result. It is seldom that more chicks are hatched from fifteen eggs than from thirteen and the chicks from the large number of eggs set are not so likely to be as strong as those from the smaller number. Some may tell you that their hens are very large and that fifteen eggs are easily covered. To that argument I have only this to say: Do not use extra large hens for setting for they are heavy and awkward and break many eggs when getting on and off the nest. The medium sized hen is the one to use and they must also possess the quality of quietness. For that reason the Leghorn does not prove to be a good setter, whereas the Rhode Island Red, Plymouth Rock and the Wyandotte are good ones to use. Should you find any eggs broken be sure and change the nesting material so that the other eggs will not become spoiled.

Do not feed the settling hen well. Whole corn, green food and grit are the necessary foods during her three weeks of setting. Dust her well with Persian insect powder before placing her upon the nest and place some of the same powder in the nesting material. Then dust her again in a week's time and again a few days before the hatch is due. Be sure that you do not use some powder that is too strong for it will kill the germ in the egg.

INTERESTING FACTS
ON NEWSPAPER WORK

General Manager Stone of the Associated Press Explains News Service at Editors Meeting.

Out at Lawrenceville, Kansas, recently there was a session of the state editors' association which brought out some interesting facts. Among the speakers was General Manager Stone of the Associated Press, one of the greatest news gathering services that the world has. The Gazette is a member of this association, in fact the only newspaper in southern middle Wisconsin that is and Mr. Stone's remarks will be of interest to the readers of this paper. This Associated Press service is received in the editorial rooms of the Gazette direct from the Milwaukee office of the Associated Press, over a special leased telephone wire of the Wisconsin Telephone company. It is taken down directly on the typewriter ready for the printer. This is an innovation in the newspaper work between thirty three and thirty five hundred words a day being received. It is the latest of the world's happenings and not released from the day before, as is the morning newspaper service in the average city paper office. Not only does the Gazette receive the world's news but also the market report, taken by trained men stationed at the Chicago stock yards and on the board of trade. As a preamble to Mr. Stone's remarks at Lawrenceville the witty sentence of Tom Mason, Editor of Life on the requirements of a newspaper man will be interesting. Mr. Mason said:

"Jonah was not a good reporter. He had the first 'inside story,' but when he landed on the beach the first thing that he did was to lie down and cry. Instead of rushing for the first telegraph office and sending in his story, had he been a good reporter after he had written the story he would have written a book, then gone on the lecture platform, then ended by making it into a play. Then it would have been a farce comedy with the first act setting, 'The Interior.'"

"Adam had the making of a good reporter. He went up against the first woman's suffrage movement and collapsed."

Following this same line of thought Mr. Stone, who followed the witty editor of Life, told that out of the 800 papers in the Associated Press he could count on the fingers of his two hands the papers that were controlled by the interests.

"Newspapers of this kind do not have influence," said Mr. Stone. "Papers of that sort are branded by their ownership. There is one paper, that I know of, that is owned by the Standard Oil company, but very few people ever heard of the paper and it has very little influence."

Mr. Stone explained some of the rules of the Chicago Daily News to show what position the newspaper should take. One of the rules was that the newspaper should be printed in the interest of the public. The three functions of a newspaper, present news, lead public opinion fairly, and entertain are followed in order.

"The duty of a newspaper is not to print what the public wants, but to print what it wants under the censorship of the editor," claimed Mr. Stone. In answer to a statement that it was the newspaper's duty to print what the public demanded.

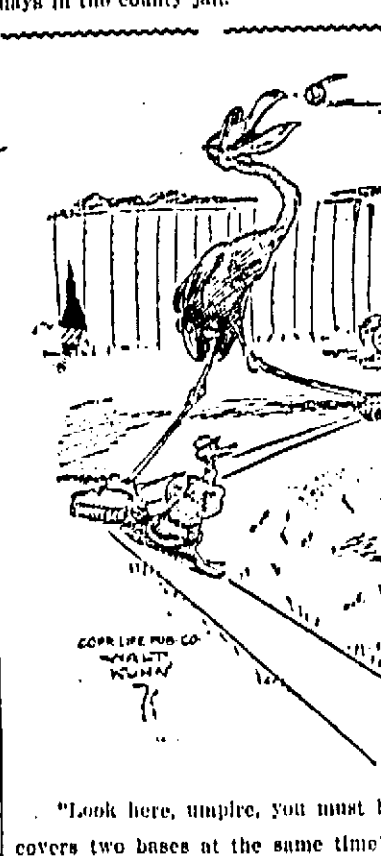

"The newspaper is like a man," continued the manager of the great news-gathering agency in the world. "When a man makes a mistake and apologizes for it he grows in your estimation. The same thing is true of the newspaper and it is a business proposition to make corrections."

PLEADS NOT GUILTY
ABUSIVE LANGUAGE CHARGE.

Trial of Case of State Versus John Condon Adjourned Until Friday April 19.

The case of the State versus John Condon, charged with using abusive language toward David Griffin last Monday, was postponed for trial until 10 o'clock Friday morning, April 19, on the motion of Attorney H. J. Maxwell, who appeared for the plaintiff. William H. Dougherty, attorney for defendant entered a plea of "not guilty" for him. The reason for postponing the trial was that Mr. Griffin was out of the city. Mr. Condon was left in the custody of Officer Dullin.

John Mahy pled guilty to a charge of intoxication and in lieu of a fine of $5 and cost was sentenced to ten days in the county jail.

Janesville people will be most interested in the announcement that on May 6th the Bush Temple Dramatic Club of Chicago will appear at the Myers Theatre in the French comedy Frou Frou with Miss Mildred Doty, daughter of Mrs. Mary Lappan, in the leading part of Frou Frou. Miss Doty has been studying dramatic art under the direction of Prof. Dvorak of Chicago for the past year and has made wonderful progress in her chosen work. She is a member of the Bush Temple Dramatic Club and is cast for the most important part in the forthcoming production. There are twelve in the cast and it will be produced under the personal management of Prof. Dvorak. Janesville is chosen as one of the cities to be visited owing to the fact Miss Doty lives here and she will doubtless be given a fine house by her many friends who will be delighted with an opportunity of witnessing her in her chosen work.
